MOMENTUM GOING

Despite a very few objections from some quarters, I believe the momentum is there to work toward possibly alleviating flooding conditions in Hondo.

When Jess Ward, Civil Defense representative from Austin, came to town the week after the flood, he and Mayor George Brucks covered the city looking at possible solutions to prevent such a disaster from happening again. Or at least cut its destructive powers to a minimum if it does occur.

Three areas of obstruction for the water caused by heavy rains are the two railroad underpasses at each end of Hondo and the Highway 90 crossing on the east end of the city.

"Had these openings been large enough to allow the water to pass on through," Mayor Brucks said Monday, "there would have been far less water damage to the homes in the east side of town."

Water that could not pass through simply backed up until it covered homes that would not have even been touched had there been adequate runoff area.

An area of the city which floods very easily and is seldom mentioned because it also drains very quickly is the area immediately west of Avenue M and south of 14th Street. A three inch rain will put water into homes in this area.

Water there runs to 18th street where without adequate storm sewers it pours east on 18th and rushes into the area blocked by the railroad and highway.

"A good storm sewer system along 16th, 17th and 18th streets and down to the railroad bridge on the east side of Hondo and then tied into one that would take the runoff to the south of the city would stop flooding in that area bounded by Avenue M and 14th Street," the Mayor said. "And that in turn would leave less water to run east to cause damage."

It is hoped that in the very near future a meeting can be held with representatives from the Governor's office and other areas of concern to discuss these problems and outline steps to alleviate them. Rep. John Poerner has assured this writer that he will work toward setting up such a meeting here in Hondo.

We only hope that the momentum brought on by the tragedy of the flood can be maintained and something can be accomplished that will eliminate future suffering on the part of the people in the areas that were hardest hit.

REFLECTION NECESSARY

No matter how hurried, how busy, how intelligent, or how concerned (or unconcerned) a person is, it never hurts to stop occasionally for personal reflection.

That holds extremely true today when we are bombarded from every side with propaganda, some true, some untrue, some outright lies, on almost every subject in the world. As human beings we are prone to take those utterings that fit our thinking and "swallow them hook, line and sinker."

Once we have them swallowed and digested it seems we have a difficult time changing our diet to hear "the other side."

All America is faced with a critical need to be open-minded, to hear and try to understand.

Museum dedication on again

The dedication is on again for 2-3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 29!

That's the official dedication of the Medina County Museum.

Edna (Sis) McDade, who is in charge of the event, said the historic landmark will be dedicated in an official ceremony at that time.

Invitations have been extended to County Judge Jerome Decker and mayors of all Medina County cities.

"This will be the real thing," she said. "We would like to have many persons present for the occasion."

JANELLE BEEN WEARS MISS HONDO CROWN . . . Lanell Saathoff, right, first runner-up, and Diane Lively, second runner-up

Janelle Been Wins Miss Hondo Title

Miss Janelle Been, a senior at Hondo High School this year, now wears the Miss Hondo Crown.

The 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Autry Been was crowned Friday night by her predecessor Diane Schulte before a standing-room only crowd in the new cafeteria at McDowell Junior High School.

Five feet five blonde Janelle

Lively, took the second runner-up spot.

Miss Congeniality title, voted on by all contestants, went to Janice Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Martin.

The other girls rounding out the top five were Linda Ann Bendele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cotton Bendele; and Judy Coyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Coyle.

Picked in the 10 finalists were Janet Graff, Debbie Howard, Rose Mary Trinidad and Melissa Mennink.

Chosen Little Miss Hondo was Diana Lindeburg, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Lindeburg; and Little Mister Hondo was Scott Bader, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bader.

Miss Medina Valley, Sue Nester of Dunlay, was a special guest.

Judges included Mrs. Brian Crouch and Mrs. Buck Heskew of Poteet, Mrs. Gilda Trevino of Pearsall and William Flathaway of Bandera. They judged contestants on poise, personality, charm, grooming, appearance, grace, carriage, sportswear and evening gown.

Mrs. Martha Iris Goodman of Beeville directed the pageant assisted by Lions Club President Ralph Hauger, and Jimmie Goodman served as master of ceremonies.

Snake-y work

RUNNING onto a rattler such as this at work isn't a "fun thing" for sure. But Forrest Florecka did it on Wednesday, August 18, on the Marshall Fohn ranch seven miles southwest of Hondo. He came upon the snake just as it was getting ready to strike at a small calf. The rattler measured 5 feet, 9 inches and was 9 inches around in the middle.

R. L. Minney, District Director in Austin, said this week that damages to property caused by recent flooding in Hondo and Medina County can result in income tax deductions for 1971 and in some instances may form the basis for claims for refund of taxes paid in prior years.

Minney stated that the actual property losses suffered from damages to dwellings, automobiles, boats, furniture and other business and nonbusiness properties are deductible in full or in part on income tax returns; but for nonbusiness property only the excess over $100 is deductible.

Two factors are important in computing casualty losses: (1) The adjusted basis of the property, and (2) the decrease in the fair market value of the property as a result of the casualty. The adjusted basis of the property generally is its cost less depreciation. Decrease in fair market value is the difference between the value of the property immediately before and immediately after the casualty.

The loss is determined by subtracting the value immediately after the damage, before any repairs are made,

Hondo meeting discusses area development

By Edna McDade

In cooperation with the Alamo Area Council of Government (ACOG) and headed by SCS personnel of the Medina Valley and other Districts in this area, a Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) meeting was held Tuesday afternoon in the Hondo city auditorium.

Present were some 20 persons representing the cities of Hondo, Devine, Castroville, and D'Hanis; Judge Jerome Decker and Commissioner C. B. Langfeld and Extension Agent Glenn Bragg for Medina County; and Bradley Bailey and Lawrence Rothe for the Edwards Underground Water District.

Announcement of the meeting had been made by letter to representatives of 27 agencies within the county, according to E. L. Abbott, SCS District conservationist, who said plans had been made "before the flood took over." Sponsors had anticipated attendance of some 100 or more.

Alfredo E. Cevera, Jr., Regional goals director for ACOG, explained the over-all purpose of the RC&D program, saying that "it covers total development of resources, represented by local people who analyze their own problems and specific needs, then take cooperative advantage of the opportunity to solve these through the methods now available to them."

"The regional concept," Cevera said, "involves communities and counties with similar needs, all cooperating toward one set of goals for mutual improvement, and whose combined efforts can thus secure maximum results."

Medina County is one of five counties centered around San Antonio as a major metropolitan area, "a distinct advantage," according to Cevera.

E. L. Abbott had explained the primary objectives of RC&D in a story which appeared in the Conservation Edition, Soil Section, (p 19) of * Please turn to Page 3

ASCS office to serve as center

All residents of Medina County may obtain answers to questions on operation and interpretation of the Presidential order of August 15 on prices, rents, wages and salaries from the Medina County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office, according to Nick G. Riff, Chairman of the County ASCS Committee.

The Medina County ASCS Office is receiving official answers to questions concerning the President's action, and any person in Medina County who wants or needs precise information should get in touch with the County Office, Riff said.

The four were building feed troughs at the lot, according to information from Sheriff Charles J. Hitzfelder, who answered the call and asked for helicopter assistance.

at Monday meet

Hondo teachers were hosted by the Hondo Chamber of Commerce at a "coffee break" during their in-service meeting at McDowell School.

President Rene Aelvoet, Manager Harry Filleman, Ralph Hauger and Burnis Lawrence served coffee, coke and twists.

Flood damages can be deductible on taxes from the value immediately before the casualty. The difference is the amount of the tax deduction unless it is more than the adjusted basis of the property. In such case, the tax loss is limited to the amount of the adjusted basis of the property. Any insurance or relief payments received must also be subtracted to offset the amount of the loss determined.

The costs of repairing or cleaning up after the casualty are acceptable as evidence of the decrease in the value of the property if they are necessary.

The Soil Speaks

I have sat and watched America become "civilized" without uttering a word, but now I must speak before "civilization" destroys me.

I like to think back to the "good ole days" when I was rich, strong, useful and full of life. I can well remember the thick, dark layers of organic matter that once I boasted of. How I was a welcome host for billions of tiny bacteria that worked in me and gave me life. I was a refuge for thousands of different kinds of grasses which infiltrated me with their root systems and found life. It's pleasant to remember the clear, clean water that once flowed through my veins and how I was able to store large amounts of it in my body in order to supply the plants in times of drought.

When the northers came I was warm and snug beneath the grasses that covered me, and when the scorching sun threw its heat at me, the grasses were always there to protect me and keep me cool. I once was somebody, somebody who was respected, somebody who was useful, but now it seems that I too have been forgotten.

Just look at me now that I have been "civilized". I am unhealthy, sickly, deformed and weak. Without protection of the grasses the dreaded cancer of erosion eats away at my body continually. Now that I have been stripped of my clothing the winters are so cold that the bacteria are no longer able to live in me and give strength. Each year it becomes increasingly hard to breathe as the organic matter is depleted and heavy machinery packs me tighter and tighter. I no longer have a capacity to store water and because of this it too has become my enemy.

Just recently, I again took one of the most severe beatings by floodwaters. I see landowners, business people, and others from all walks of life, that seem concerned, but I know they will soon forget the abuse I have suffered. There is much talk about what should be done, but few are willing to stand up and be counted in my behalf.

The pain that I suffered on the Secco and Parker Creek is unbearable. My power to produce was greatly weakened on the Hondo and Verde Creek watershed. I am being strangled on these watersheds and the San Geronimo is eating into me. But people continue to ignore and just walk over me and shake their heads.

I don't know how much longer I can continue to endure this torture without being completely destroyed. Perhaps man will some day open his eyes. It's not too late yet, but his time grows shorter and shorter each day.

One fact remains clear in my mind. If I die, civilization dies. My closest friends, technicians of the Soil Conservation Service, realize this and are doing everything within their power to keep me from perishing, and give me new life. They need your assistance and cooperation.

Recent rains will provide moisture for small grains

Recent rains in Medina County will provide adequate moisture for early planted Small Grains which will supply excellent winter pastures for cattle, says County Agent Glenn Bragg.

The declining temperatures and shorter daylight hours become more apparent each day and Medina County producers may want to plant small grains early to obtain winter forage for cattle. By utilizing small grains as winter pastures producers will be able to conserve permanent pasture grasses for later usage.

High rates of fertilization and adequate amounts of good quality seed are essential for a successful winter forage production program. Soil tests are the best method to use to determine fertilizer and other requirements.

Army worms and other insects could become problems in early planted pastures, but they can be safely and economically controlled with insecticides. The advantages of early planting far outweigh the threat of insects.

Wheat varieties recommended for Medina County are Fox, (a new hard winter wheat), Atta 66 (for forage), Chaparral, Penjamo, and Milam.

Only the Fox, Milam, and Atta 66 should be planted for grazing purposes.

There are five oat varieties that are recommended for Medina County. These include Florida 500, Florida 501, Suregrain, Coronado, and Cortez.

Her duties include the editing, typing and preparation of graphic illustrations for

In addition to her full-time job, in the past two years she has "moonlighted" by doing graphic illustrations, editing and typing approximately 30 dissertations and theses. She also edited and typed a textbook on statistics. During the whole of our marriage, our household has been run without the aid of any outside help.

Therefore, I would sincerely appreciate it if you could "set the record straight".

Although my name appears alone on the diplomas and the children bear my name, I cannot in any way take full credit or share it with my parents alone.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Thanks for your nice letter and the tear sheet from the August 12th edition of the Hondo HERALD. We really appreciate your coverage of Rich Bean, fine young man and, we hope, one of the mainstays of what should be an improving Navy football team this fall.

derstand both sides, to lay aside our personal prejudices and work for the betterment of the whole society.

We in Hondo are definitely faced with this situation. There is a growing friction between the Mexican-American citizens and the Anglo citizens of this town. There is resentment on both sides.

This should never be allowed to grow until it gets out of hand. We all must accept the responsibility of helping to prevent it.

To do so we must first take time for personal reflection. Inspect closely our inner feelings. Is there prejudice there that we didn't even know existed? Have we (and remember I am including all Anglos and all Mexican-Americans in this reflection exercise) committed acts of discrimination that we weren't even aware of? How can we approach the problem so that we personally can help ease tension and thus improve our city in which all of us take much pride.

Do we call people names, that even in jest, provide a basis for a feeling of being discriminated against? Do we speak only Spanish around groups including people who cannot understand what we are saying, thereby causing resentment? Do we refuse to allow all ethnic groups to take pride in their backgrounds, their cultural heritage, their traditions?

We can ask ourselves these and many more questions. But the answers we come up with and how we try to utilize those answers for improved relations will determine if our good city of Hondo will continue to be a town of united people, or one torn with strife brought on by misunderstanding and the refusal to be tolerant.

We need more give and take communications between all residents. We need some more liaison work done by the City Council so that all problems can be heard and solved if they have substance. At one time there was talk of beginning meetings to exchange thoughts and feelings. They never materialized. Perhaps both sides should reflect a little and see why they never materialized, and work out the problems so they can be

Let's open the communication lines and keep them open.

Obviously "The Point" was missed by all those offended. The point we desire to expose is that conditions favorable to social, economical, and political preference against Mexican-Americans do exist in Hondo. People might not be aware that they practice these conditions and we feel it is part of our job to air out the refusal of their mistakes.

Previously there has been an indifferent and detached attitude towards Mexican-American problems. Some of our problems have fallen on deaf ears and others have developed into unfulfilled promises. Last week's paper asks us to work toward better streets, lighting, and housing. Isn't it ironic that this is precisely what we have been trying to do... only little attention is paid to our efforts by many in this community until we disturb the status quo of law enforcement.

Ridicule, snide remarks, and tongue-in-cheek comments seem to be in order when some of us from the Mexican-American community approach the system with our grievances. Our approach is always sincere and with extreme respect. But our observation of the reception is all too often quite the opposite.

It didn't take us a flood to realize the problems we have in "el barrio de la rana". It is everyday common knowledge to us that we have to do something. Our efforts are frustrated by a usually indifferent system of government. Now that more people know about these problems we can more effectively work towards solving them.

Thank you,
Tom E. Santos

the Anvil Herald June 24.

Abbott spoke Tuesday regarding the responsibility of the Soil Conservation agencies in the program.

Those in attendance had been given an information booklet summarizing RC&D project measures, use of funds, authorities and policies, possible group undertakings and the help available.

Selecting several key questions from the 31 listed in the booklet, Abbott led a discussion on those of major interest.

Emphasis was placed on the need of "push from the people who want to get things done." The goals process was described as "a flexible process, subject to change."

Among various needs and goals suggested from the floor were the pollution of Medina Lake waters in Medina and Bandera counties, a condition considered to have been "alleviated somewhat by the recent floods" but warranting future study.

Other possible goals included Hondo's need of an industrial airport and increased development of existing and future industry.

"The impact of metropolitan areas," Cevera said, "is on rural areas with potential, and potential is what our rural areas have in a big way."

Kendall County was mentioned as now under way with a most successful RC&D program. Cevera said that Kendall was following some of the subdivision regulations initiated by Judge Decker in Medina County.

Abbott said that suggestions and ideas are wanted for Medina County and urged immediate action. Following routine development by local people, with help from SCS and other local State and Federal agencies, application for RC&D will first be submitted to the State Conservationist.

Following review and comment at this level, with the Governor, if the results are favorable, the application is forwarded to the SCS administrator accompanied by the recommendation of the State Conservationist.

Abbott said that six months is considered a maximum period for development of a project plan, barring unforeseen delays. He explained that cost sharing arrangements

"can be entered into only with the appropriate State and local public agencies."

Speaking for the Extension Department, Glenn Bragg, county agricultural agent, discussed suggested plans for goals under RC&D.

Reference was made to a report appraisal of potentials for recreation development of Medina County as presented in booklet form June, 1967. Bragg said that this, and another report made by the Extension Department's goals committee in 1968 were being updated to outline present recommendations.

Bragg added that advisory sub-committees were active in studying field crops, livestock and range requirements, family living and youth programs, pecan harvests, food commodities and other subjects pertinent to community interests.

Commenting on the workshop on estate planning of which Rene Alvoet was general chairman, Bragg said that the wide interest shown indicated the potential for community cooperation in the pending RC&D program.

Representing the city of Devine, J. P. McCarty, an accountant and city planner, said that Devine now has a location on some 50 acres or more for a recreation park along Pecan Creek.

Miss Ruth Lawler, representing the city of Castroville, said, "We are keenly interested in the development of a park with recreational facilities for our community."

Other needs suggested from various areas in Medina County included storm sewers, flood control, erosion control, open space land, watershed improvements, housing, and others, most of which would qualify for help available under the RC&D program.

In addition to the names mentioned, others who registered for the Tuesday meeting included Floyd M. Smith, ASCS manager; Roy Kile, superintendent D'Illia ISD; V. C. Grunewald and D. B. Schrader, SCS; Jack Zinsmeyer, D'Illia; J. C. Cooley, ACC; Harry E. Hillman, manager Hondo C of C; Mayor George Brucks and Fritz Leinweber, Hondo; and Edna McDade, for the Anvil Herald.

He received a $3,600 fellowship from the Post-Montgomery Estate to work on a M.S. degree in range management at Tech. There his research dealt with the use of fire as a method of controlling several brush species such as mesquite, cholla and prickly pear.

school year. The form itself is simple to complete and requests information needed to determine economic need based on the income and number of persons in the family and any unusual circumstances or hardships which affect the family's ability to pay for school lunches. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Under the provisions of the policy, the principal of the child's school will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the local official, he may make a request either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision. Supt. Flores, whose address is 2608 Avenue H, has been designated as the Hearing Official. Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy.

The policy also provides that there will be no identification of or discrimination against any student unable to pay the cost of a lunch.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in the office of the Superintendent where it may be reviewed by any interested person.

Property owners having excessive losses or complicated tax problems should seek advice from the Internal Revenue Service or competent tax practitioners for details in recording evidence of losses and in preparing their tax returns.

Available at all local banks and your local Post Office is an Internal Revenue document explaining in detail how to compute a casualty loss deduction.

Abbott said that six months is considered a maximum period for development of a project plan, barring unforeseen delays. He explained that cost sharing arrangements will be made in these instances, but claims cannot be filed by calendar year taxpayers until after December 31, 1971.

Phinney urged property owners to record evidence of losses as soon as possible rather than waiting until the next filing period. Appraisals made before and after the damage, records showing the costs of properties, depreciation sustained, and insurance and disaster relief recoveries are some of the important records that are necessary to establish losses.

Photographs of property as it existed before it was damaged will be helpful in showing the condition and value of the property prior to the casualty. Photographs taken after the casualty which show the damage will be helpful in establishing the condition and value of the property after it was repaired, restored, or replaced may also be helpful.

Abbott said that six months is considered a maximum period for development of a project plan, barring unforeseen delays. He explained that cost sharing arrangements will be made in these instances, but claims cannot be filed by calendar year taxpayers until after December 31, 1971.

Phinney urged property owners to record evidence of losses as soon as possible rather than waiting until the next filing period. Appraisals made before and after the damage, records showing the costs of properties, depreciation sustained, and insurance and disaster relief recoveries are some of the important records that are necessary to establish losses.

Photographs of property as it existed before it was damaged will be helpful in showing the condition and value of the property prior to the casualty. Memorable dates recalled

By Edna McDade

In the year 1883, Jack Frost decorated the trees and shrubs in the big pecan bottoms along the Medina River, in the valley land between Rio Medina and Castroville, with icicles a foot long.

This was on Tuesday, Nov. 13th, to be exact. For years afterward, the grownups in that area spoke of it as "A real sure enough freeze of a day".

It was on this memorable date that Mrs. Alfred (Emilia Mary) Schmitt and her twin brother, Emil, were born to August and Adeline Bourquin Wurzbach in their early day ranch home whose some 700 acres still remain in the family estate. The parents were both native Medina countians.

Emil died within an hour after birth. His twin, who will be 88 this year, continues to live on the same land, just across the river from their birthplace, in a two-story home that was built in 1910.

The Wurzbachs had three sons and four daughters, all born at the old ranch, surviving with Mrs. Schmitt are her two younger sisters, Mrs. Amanda Haegelin of Natalia, and Mrs. Minnie (C. J.) Ahl of Rio Medina.

CHILDHOOD

In April, I spent a pleasant day in Emilia's home as she shared with me vivid memories of her active life. In anticipation of the interview, she had made notes for reference "about what I'd like to tell you in case my forgetter works better than my memory today".

We began with stories about her childhood. "We were a happy and contented family with devoted parents to set the example that it took teamwork without grumbling, to get through life. A general rule was that 'right is right and fair is fair' and it worked to settle many an argument".

In a day of limited opportunity for rural children, said Emilia, "We all obtained a basic education from books and a more liberal one from experience. Going to school meant a 4-mile walk, remaining there seven hours, sharing studies in a one-room, one-teacher building. We never thought of it as a hardship and we really had lots of fun."

"Sometimes we dilly-dallied on the way home, to slide down the river banks, chase bumblebees, listen to the birds, anything to stay outdoors. If we thought we'd be late, we cut through the pastures at double trot and we always made it in time."

Her notes said "Tell about Aunt E. and the accident". Aunt Emilia (Mrs. Fritz) Rothe was Grandfather Wurzbach's sister. Mrs. Schmitt is named for her and another aunt, Mrs. Mary Slaton, who was also her godmother. Mrs. Rothe and her family were at sea 60 days from Germany to Galveston. En route, she became very ill and died after they reached Castroville.

"Aunt Emilia was buried near the river," her namesake said, "and I always stopped for a few moments on the way home from school to honor her memory. An old tree still stands near her gravesite".

ACCIDENT

The "accident" occurred one afternoon as her sister Alvina and Emilia were driving a "one-horse, two-wheel gig which was the jeep of that day", said its driver. A broken hamestrap frightened the horse and he pitched all the way up hill. When a wheel hit a tree, Alvina was pinned in between and Emilia landed under the overturned vehicle.

An uncle who lived near by came to their rescue, restored order, and the girls made it home, plus a few bruises and scratches but minus Alvina's crochet handwork. "Thread was rung all over the brush and the finished lace was all unravelled so there it stayed!"

Emilia said she could remember the surnames of most of her teachers, most of whom were men "to better handle the boys". They included Brucks, Hall, Marbach, Marcus, Fletcher Davis and a lady whose name was Carry Coots, spelled C-a-r-r-y, who had a sister, Love Coots.

At 16, Emilia left school to take on responsibilities at home, as was the custom for many girls then. She admits that she much preferred outdoor work to domestic chores.

PRODUCE TO SEL.

One day, she loaded a wooden box with eggs to take to the Castroville market place, in the gig. The river crossing, near Koenig Park, was higher than usual that day and the horse lost his footing and had to swim.

"All I could think of," said the produce salesman, "was that I had 15 dozen eggs to sell so I kept my seat, steadied the box between my feet and prayed that horse sense would really work this time. It did and we made it to the Courant store where I collected six cents a dozen for the eggs and got an order for more".

In 1908, when she was 24, Emilia was married to Charles Haby, who died 12 years later. In 1927, she married Alfred Schmitt who died in 1964. She has no children but says that devoted nieces and nephews "helped to make up for this". Her home is

SURPRISE

Another childhood memory involved a baby sister and a birthday gift. "When Mama wanted us out of the way, she often sent us to the river to gather pecans. That day when we returned dragging heavy sacks, we learned that we had a new baby sister, a real surprise!"

"It was near Mama's birthday and we wanted to give her a surprise gift. Papa decided we had enough pecans to pay for something nice so he and our oldest sister headed for San Antonio in the wagon, a long trip in those days before state highway programs. They came back with a big barrel which contained a complete dinner set of blue and white dishes. It saw almost daily use and was always used when Mama served at family gatherings and church picnics. She really loved that china".

The only two dinner plates that remain are among Emilia's prized possessions. They are marked "Royal semi-porcelain, Ormonde, Alfred Beale, Ltd., England". She served our lunch on these, making the simple meal a banquet for this appreciative guest.

Keepsakes, each with their own value as such, fill the rooms of the old farmhouse. A cupboard contains assorted dishes "washed so often they look faded," says their owner. One such is a octagonal shaped china cake plate, always used to serve layer cakes, "the more layers, the better". A souvenir glass mug is etched "Degen's, established 1888". A silver spoon, engraved "Deutschland, Augusta Victoria, RX" once belonged to Emilia's grandmother, Louisa Montel (Mrs. Fritz J.) Wurzbach.

STORY SKIPS

"My story", warned my hostess, "might skip about because it is hard to follow according to the years. I always seemed to be in a hurry and I used to think that way until I had to slow down". So, we talked as the narrative "skipped", all of it told in the inimitable way of one who has had rich and varied experiences and still enjoys many of them in retrospect.

In 1908, when she was 24, Emilia was married to Charles Haby, who died 12 years later. In 1927, she married Alfred Schmitt who died in 1964. She has no children but says that devoted nieces and nephews "helped to make up for this". Her home is

Reserves promoted

Two new appointments were made in Medina County Sheriff Reserves by President Floyd Williams at the last regular meeting.

Gregorio (Pete) Pedroza was named Lieutenant taking the place of Page Boon, who accepted an enforcement position.

James Grunewald was elected to serve the group as treasurer.

"I would like to express my personal appreciation to all these men for the excellent job they have done in the short time they have been organized," Williams said.

"They put in more than 250 hours during the flooding, helped with the search for Walter Scheweers, and last weekend at the St. Louis Day in Castroville."

Williams said Royce Groff, tri-chairman of the big Castroville event, had asked for assistance and the Reserves turned in an outstanding job on morning and evening shifts.

The organization will hold its next regular meeting Sept. 8.

News brings calls from far away

The news gets around, especially when flashed on television; and the Medina County floods were no exception.

Saturday morning Mrs. Lorraine Murray of Long Beach, California called her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Koch, after she had seen a newscast on the floods.

And on Saturday night Mrs. Clifford Brown, mother of Mrs. Burnis Lawrence, called from Oxnard, California after watching a television account of the rains.

Albert Rowlett reported calls from Michigan and California; Rocky Sedgwick said he heard from Kentucky and Tennessee; and Doc Taylor received a clipping from Louisiana.

The organization will hold but was missing the next day. His son said he had put in some new posts on Tuesday.

This week

That's all she wrote

by Edna McDade

The week's mail brought a letter of noteworthy interest from MRS. JOE M. (Matilda Kimmerly) ZINSMEYER of 5714 Brinkman, Amarillo (79106) . . . in case readers might like to have her address.

Matilda reports that, for the first time since their families moved to that area in 1965-66, three former Medina County boys will be attending the same (Tascosa High) school this year.

Their son, KIM, now a senior, is also the brother of DEAN ZINSMEYER of D'Hanis.

ROBERT, a junior, is the son of JOE and RUTH RIEBER and a nephew of MRS. ANDY SCHNEIDER of D'Hanis.

MATT, a sophomore, son of DON and OLGA MARIE (Rieber) TSCHIRHART, is also the nephew of CHICK and ARLENE (Ranch Store) TSCHIRHART.

Next thing we know, Amarillo might boast a Medina County subdivision!

It was kind of Mrs. Zinsmeyer to call these facts to my attention and even kinder of her to have added, "My family and I eagerly look forward to the ANVIL HERALD each week."

For all of which, we thank her most appreciatively.

Mrs. O. C. (Hattie) JOHNSON, 1203 Ave. J, takes daily walks, always with a spring in her step, a smile on her face, and a lilt in her voice when she slows down long enough for us to exchange greetings.

Just before the flood waters descended, Hattie had completed the man-sized job of painting the interior of her home. She did this in spare time when she wasn't walking or going somewhere, she said.

For a while, it looked like our Medina County doves (season opens Sept. 1) might have had the same sole-resting problems which the lady dove encountered in the days when Noah made the ark of gopher wood in anticipation of the 40 days and 40 nights deluge.

Just before the rains, AUGUST TIMMERMANN had told me that the doves were having a bit of rough going with the shortages of croton, grain and sunflower seed. If the rains didn't wash away what was left, all our wildlife should be making up time for their enforced starvation through the long drought.

* * *

At the courthouse recently, I met Mrs. GLENN (Virginia Reed) GODDEN and two children of Betsy. They were seeking information on farm matters.

MICHELLE, almost 2, and her little brother SHANE were happily unconcerned but their mother told me that the drought had cost them the loss of the 150 acres of broomcorn they had "set hopes on". "Some years," she said without bitterness, "farming goes like that but we still enjoy farming and always hope for better luck next year."

With that spirit to bolster their morale, The Goddens are bound to succeed. I hope 1972 will cooperate to make it possible for them.

* * *

Remembering the old publishing adage that "The greater the truth, the greater the threat of libel", I can't name names but the story is too good to keep.

A young Hondo matron who, with her whole family, "gets involved" in every civic project that works to the good of our community, admits that this means that she has to let home chores slide occasionally until she can catch up with any such domestic negligence.

Some friends, who manage "involvement" with seemingly perfect housekeeping, had caught her twice in succession when her house was at its worst and she was trying to bake a cake promised for some local benefit.

Just as she headed for the shower, she heard a car in the drive and said to one of her children, "If that's the J's finding me in the same mess again, I'll scream."

Her young son answered the door and yelled, "Better start screaming, Mother!"

You see now why I couldn't identify those involved in the story? But it would be a safe bet to bet that many of us have shared the same circumstantial predicament at one time or another!

First scrimmage slated for Friday night at Southside

They are bigger; they are faster; one year's experience has had to add some smart to the Hondo Owl football squad; and Friday night will give players, coaches and fans an opportunity to see just how much they want to play.

The Owls journey to Southside Friday night for the first controlled scrimmage of the year, and after that head-banging is over Coach Nelson Bippert and his staff will know more about how the Owls stack up for the 1971 season.

"They really get after it in practice," Bippert said Tuesday afternoon. "It's the same old Hondo scene in football practice, plenty of spirit, want-to and a strong desire to live up to tough tradition."

Coach Bippert said that the 1971 team should show a little more speed and be a little heavier especially in the offensive line. "Experience will be an added factor on our side," the coach said, when it comes to replacing two starting guards, one tackle, a wingback and a fullback."

One change made by the Hondo coach to bolster the backfield has been switching Faron Helvey from end to wingback. He also said Gary Zinsmeyer will go from tight-end to guard and Mike Saathoff will change from tackle to guard. "These are the only changes so far," he said.

Showing up in the backfield picture so far is Tom Hill at quarterback, Faron Helvey at wingback, Keith Ligon at tailback and Johnny Abrego at fullback.

No set lineup has completely jelled in the offensive and defensive lines since the coaches are still "looking at all players." Friday night will give them one more good look.

Monday the teams split into three sections, varsity, B-Team and Freshmen.

Varsity players include: Kurt Leinweber, 5-8, 165, center; John Howard, 5-9, 160, guard; Corky Young, 5-11, 150, guard; Gordon Wiemers, 6-1-1/2, 170, tackle; Joe Schueling, 6-2, 191, tackle; Faron Helvey, 5-10, 165, wingback; Eric Grant, 5-11, 142, end.

WE NEED

BY PATRICIA LAWRENCE
Regional Adoption Supervisor
Texas Department of Public Welfare

(This is the fifth in a series of eight articles covering answers to questions about adoption and foster home care.)

QUESTION:

We would like to be foster parents and provide temporary, short-term care to children. Does State Welfare or the County provide financial aid for expenses?

ANSWER:

Where contracts exist between the County and our agency, foster parents receive a small monthly check to cover the child's board costs. Medical care and drugs are provided by the agency. Because of the low board rates, a family should not consider foster care as an income supplement and should be prepared for some out-of-pocket expenses. More information can be obtained by calling 426-3949 in Hondo.
